

University Centre Colchester (UCC)

Staff Profile

Name:	Phil Toms
Job title/role:	Head of Schools: Digital Media, Music & Performing Arts
Subjects taught/administrative responsibilities:	Phil has administrative and artistic responsibility for the School, its programmes and activities. A versatile musician and dedicated educator, Phil contributes to a range of academic programmes, live performances and student auditions.
Qualifications and Membership of Professional bodies:	BA (Hons) Music, University Centre Colchester MSc Music Technology, University of York He is an Associate of the London College of Music (ALCM) and has qualified teacher status (QTS). Phil has received numerous awards for his commitment to music making, and to championing the Arts throughout Essex.
Experience in Education:	After completing his studies, Phil, started a freelance career in instrumental and classroom music teaching. Following three years travelling between prep schools, secondary schools and Colchester Royal Grammar School teaching double bass, piano and music technology, Phil took up a teaching post at Shenfield High School, quickly becoming Head of Music and later Assistant Head of Expressive Arts. In 2006, Phil joined the School of Music at Colchester Institute teaching a variety of degree modules in Music Education and diploma classes from musicianship to music business. Following the formation of University Centre Colchester (UCC), Phil was appointed to his current post.
Biography and personal interests:	Phil has an eclectic musical background from classical music & jazz to prog-folk. He is also a busy composer and arranger, working with singers from Judy Dyble (Fairport Convention) to Jon Anderson (Yes), arranging strings for album tracks. Phil is an acknowledged authority on the works of Mike Oldfield and in 2018 took Tubular Bells Live on a UK tour. Phil is also the film critic for BBC Essex, appearing on radio on a weekly basis.
Professional practice / research interests:	His expertise as a composer, educator, arranger and performer can be seen in the following three sample projects: Island: Schools Oratorio Phil worked with English Teaching specialist Jeremy Harmer to compose "Island", a 45-minute modern oratorio for primary school children, with full orchestra, adult choirs and a narrator. It deals with war, reconciliation, and eco-sustainability and demonstrates how many different topics can be taught through music. Its premiere performance was in March 2014 at Ely Cathedral and a follow up performance was in June 2018 at Chelmsford Cathedral. www.myislandhome.co.uk

Tubular Bells Live (UK Tour)

To celebrate the 45th anniversary of Mike Oldfield's legendary album that launched Virgin Records, Phil's 13-piece band and crew are on a UK tour in 2018. Inspired as a youngster by Mike's multi-instrumental musicianship and technical wizardry, Phil has spent two years transcribing exact notation from the seminal 1973 album, individual multitracks and deluxe edition surround mixes with over an hour of Mike Oldfield's other music notated. With the participation of Richard Branson, recorded producer Tom Newman, guitarist Jay Stapley, bassist Phil Spalding and Roger Eno, Phil organised two internationally sold out concerts at Colchester Institute in 2015 and a fundraising concert at the Mercury Theatre (raising £8500 for their charity). Phil's Tubular Band is the only UK ensemble performing Mike Oldfield's music in its authentic original style and features seven members of the UCC staff and UCC Music graduates.
